

Great minds do NOT think alike

Boost productivity by up to 30%

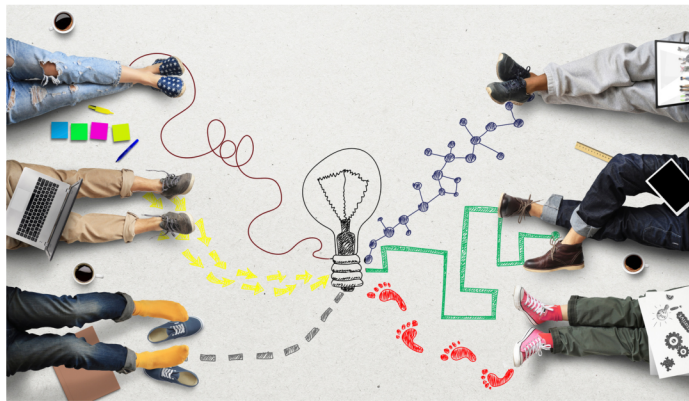

Business need

Meetings, real-time meetings, whether in person or virtual, are the best tool we have to drive innovation, solve problems and boost productivity. Getting a team together to work on an issue is almost always the best way to find a solution.

Yet many businesses struggle with those challenges of innovation, problem solving and productivity, despite having a lot of meetings. Why? It's because internal processes and, in particular, the way some meetings happen suppresses innovation, drives uniform thinking and reduces productivity.

Our “Great minds” training course, building on research we started with NASA to create efficient communication with astronauts, can help you to make your meetings more effective and boost your productivity.

Course description

Participants gain the knowledge and skills to identify situations that stifle innovation and limit efficiency. Through interactive sessions and practical exercises they will learn how to create alternative methods that encourage a variety of approaches and thus boost productivity.

Delivery method

The course can be delivered in person or virtually. It lasts between 2 and 4 hours, depending on the delivery method and the number of attendees, and includes a follow-up ‘progress-check and additional support’ session a month after the initial training.

Learning objectives

At the end course participants will be able to:

- Communicate the benefits of the “Great minds” concepts to colleagues within their immediate teams and across your wider organisation
- Identify processes and working methods that limit potential within meetings and thus suppress creativity and productivity
- Suggest and implement alternative techniques that create and deliver more effective meetings
- Measure the impact of those alternative methods

Target audience

This course is for teams and their leaders, whether managers, executives or business owners, who want to improve their performance and that of the department or company.
